

Jim Waldron given award from team.

Award for being one of the team

He couldn't claim a letterman's jacket because of a physical handicap barring him from active sports. But young Jim Waldron earned a standing ovation from the Amador High student body for his "outstanding and dedicated" service as manager of the football team.

Much to his surprise, Jim was presented with a Certificate of Appreciation at a pep rally this month for four consecutive years as manager of football teams at Amador High, two years managing the basketball team, and another year as frosh baseball manager.

Rumor has it that the Amador Dons varsity football team masterminded the winning play for Jim. Their affection for the young manager who has "never missed a practice or a game" runs deep.

"I get along pretty well with the team," Jim admits. A typical practice of two hours or more means three trips to fill the team's eight water bottles for the tireless manager.

His summer vacation ends early — August 15 — with the start of daily football practice. Jim hauls out the ball bag, practice equipment, medical kit and tool kit for every practice or game. And puts everything back in place when the team is through. The day before a game he hands out the uniforms.

At practice or game, Jim performs such sundry tasks as tightening helmet screws, fetching bandages, making a quick trip for ice in the event of a field injury, and keeping ahead of that thirst.

Jim would indeed like to be out on that field as a regular player, but cannot because he has only one kidney. He was recruited as manager for the Dons because he was known to be such an avid sports fan. He watches televised games of the Oakland A's, the Raiders and Warriors religiously.

Other interests include P.E. and math at school, stamp and coin collecting at home. Jim, a senior at Amador High, is planning to study at Chabot College next year and eventually earn a business degree.

He will leave big shoes to fill and an empty spot in the hearts of football fans at Amador High when he goes.

Amador teachers protest stalled bargaining talks

Teachers belonging to the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association (AVSEA), which represents 225 faculty members in the district, will boycott extracurricular unpaid services beginning tomorrow.

Jim Eaton, AVSEA president, announced Friday that up to 200 teachers are expected to join in the protest.

The action is designed to spur action by the board in stalled negotiations over the present contract dispute. Teachers are requesting that grievances be solved by binding arbitration, which the board has rejected.

"We are not asking for the cost of living issue to be settled by binding arbitration," Eaton said Friday. "Only the grievance issue."

The services expected to be affected include faculty meetings, chaperoning school dances, and sponsoring after-school clubs "All the services teachers perform on their own time without pay," Eaton said.

Drama practice, football and basketball work-outs, and band practice will continue as scheduled, because they are conducted under the supervision of paid teachers. "We have decided to keep those programs going — so far," Eaton said.

He added that Open Houses planned at Dublin High School Oct. 19 and Oct. 27 at Foothill and Amador high schools will be held as planned. They are the only exceptions to the rule, Eaton emphasized.

Teachers are seeking an 8 per cent cost of living increase and are protesting establishment of an agency shop. Those two issues are not being requested to go to binding arbitration, Eaton said.

School district management was informed of the services boycott with a letter from Eaton Friday.

The board, through board president Wallace Decker, issued a statement stating that binding arbitration is not a right granted by the collective bargaining law.

Murphy denies reports payoff offered Vincent

Incumbent disclaims any knowledge, authorization of alleged maneuver

Incumbent supervisor John Murphy denies any knowledge of a purported plan to pay off the campaign debt of primary election opponent Irene Vincent and of offering Rob Alves, who also ran against Murphy in the June race, the campaign manager's position in Fremont.

Rumors that began swirling the first part of the week climaxed Friday with publication in The Independent of an alleged offer to pay Vincent's $2,000 campaign debt and the offer to Alves.

According to The Independent's report, persons claiming to be envoys from Murphy's campaign told Vincent's former campaign manager Carol Kiger to send the bills over for payment. Kiger refused the direct offer, and instead agreed to have the group buy enough tickets for a July 31 beer/wine fund raiser to pay off the debt.

Vincent, however, was vacationing in Washington when the alleged offers were made. She quashed the deal upon her return.

Meanwhile, Alves, according to The Independent, was approached by a purported Murphy representative who offered him the campaign chairmanship and the supervisor's administrative aide position if Murphy were re-elected.

Alves turned down the offer. Vincent, Kiger and Alves had told similar stories to The Times earlier in the week.

Kiger said she was approached by people who claimed to be representing members of the Murphy campaign, and that they offered to pay the $2,000 debt. That offer was rejected "absolutely," she said, and replaced with the $5 tickets for the beer/wine fund raiser.

Vincent had told The Times she was "irritated as hell when I got back from Washington," and that she squashed the deal, sending Kiger out to collect the tickets.

But, naming both the date and location, she and Kiger also told The Times of a luncheon later at which the offer reportedly was repeated, but reduced to $1,000.

Of the original offer, Vincent said: "I felt that it was a pay off of some kind, so we stopped it right there." She was so afraid, she said, that she put "trustworthy people at the door" of the beer/wine party to watch for "bulk money."

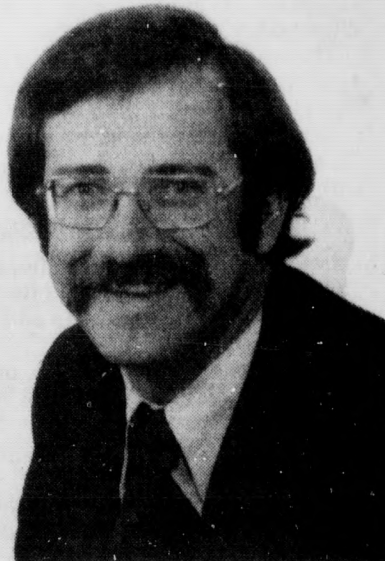

Kiger, however, says she "did not get the impression at all" that payment of the bills was predicated on an endorsement or support of Murphy.

Irene Vincent

John Murphy

Rob Alves

Instead, she said: "It probably was so she (Vincent) would be helping to them for future political help in this city."

Alves denied he ever was offered the administrative aide's position, and says a luncheon with someone "purporting to represent Mr. Murphy's interests" consisted of preliminary inquiries over his interest in the campaign manager's job.

"Money was no object," he said, noting they pointed to his successful campaign track record of six victories in six campaigns, and that they would "pay a little extra for the name."

He's quick to add, however, that the offer was not necessarily "an official one" since he does not know with certainty that the person officially represented Murphy's camp.

"My assumption at the time was that what they wanted to buy was my allegiance. . . I laughed at it and still laugh at it," he said. "I smiled, ate my free lunch, and went off on my merry way."

He said he would have charged them $6,000 for the three months remaining in the run to the November general election, and that his campaign debt was $6,000 to $7,000 at the time.

Murphy said there is "no way" he would have paid $6,000 for a campaign manager, and that "I'd have to have had a long, long talk with (Alves)" before hiring him.

"I can't envision anyone feeling that Alves is that great," said Murphy, questioning his former opponent's campaign track record.

The reported offers, he said "are the figment of someone's imagination. It sounds like two disgruntled candidates trying to make a big deal out of it."

Of the reputed envoys to Vincent and Kiger, Murphy said he does not believe he even knew them at the time of the alleged offer.

He said Kiger invited him to the beer/wine party, but that he did not attend. She had called him during the county employees strike to say "she was throwing all her support to me," and that she called again later to say she was endorsing Murphy's opponent, Valerie Raymond.

"Nobody would be able to offer $1,000," said Murphy, "and nobody was authorized to offer the administrative aide's job."

He said he does not know of anyone in his re-election committee who could make the offer or who would have authorized someone to make the offer.

The aide's position "has not even been considered," he said, although some people have applied for it.

"For anyone to make such an offer, it would have been completely without my authorization," said Murphy, tapping his chest. "I would have known."

He said he hasn't "the slightest idea" if the scenario evolved as a misunderstanding or a fabrication, and asked why either Vincent or Alves had not come to him when they allegedly were approached.

Gravel truck traffic spurs study

Where does the "problem of gravel trucks" stand in the Valley's priority list of traffic and new road development?

Representatives of Livermore, Pleasanton, Alameda County and the gravel industry tried to come to grips with that question during a lively two-hour session on Friday, but the best they could agree was to "create a study panel to study the matter."

Even that study could be a major first step in pursuit of an issue that has been bound up in controversy and politics for some two decades. "How do we get the gravel trucks, ALL the gravel trucks, off of city streets?"

Councilman Wm. Herlihy summed it up that way as his view of "what Pleasanton really wants to achieve." Specifically, Herlihy wants action that would develop either Isabel Avenue or El Charro Road, or both, as major links from Stanley Boulevard to Interstate 580.

While the daily flow of some 2000 gravel rigs is the immediate problem, there was discussion also in that Friday gathering of "the traffic that will be generated by industry being developed on the reclaimed gravel pit lands . . . and the traffic that will flow into huge recreation areas to replace those pits."

It is the "reclamation" of some 4000 acres of land now indicated for quarrying that formed the basis for this latest round of talks on the "gravel truck problem." In session last month, the Sand and Gravel Study Committee outlined for the first time a detailed, 35-year program whereby those 4000 acres would be returned to "some kind of alternative use."

The four major gravel extractors are funding that reclamation plan in compliance with state law and the stated concerns by several local agencies as to the ultimate impact on Valley resources resulting from the extraction of almost one billion tons of material from the Stanley Boulevard pits.

Traffic flow and the need for new or improved routes were not however part of that reclamation plan.

"They are two different questions," explained Jim Dahl, chairman of the Sand and Gravel Committee and a Kaiser executive. It was this industry position — that the extraction of material and the subsequent development of "alternative uses for the depleted lands" were not part of the traffic problem — which brought the industry in conflict with local forces.

Pleasanton's new PO opens on Monday

PLEASANTON — The post office will be open in its spanking new location at Black Avenue and Santa Rita Road tomorrow.

Doors open at 8:30 a.m. and close at 5 p.m., the regular weekday business hours.

The facility, including land, cost $1.4 million and contains 31,500 square feet, approximately four times the old facility near the end of Main Street.

Postmaster Mark Foster, who came to this city in 1964, a year after the Main Street building opened, said that the new facility should speed up counter service because there will be room to put more clerks on duty. The capacity of the box section will be tripled.

There will be 31 customer parking spaces compared to 13 at the old facility and 135 spaces in the rear for postal vehicles and employee parking.

There won't be any dedication ceremonies — the postal service discontinued those some time ago — but there will be an open house for the public, probably within a month, said Foster.

Foster reminded all holders of boxes that they can pick up their new keys at the windows during regular business hours.

Jerry Brunette watched Postmaster Mark Foster move into new quarters.

Dublin woman is murdered: husband held

DUBLIN — A 66-year-old retired dental equipment salesman will be arraigned tomorrow on charges of murder in the shooting death of his 49-year-old wife Thursday night, according to the sheriff's department.

Barbara May Horner's body was found in the hallway of the couple's apartment, 7581 Amador Valley Blvd., Dublin, about 8 p.m. Thursday by her son, Michael Stadelman of San Jose. Stadelman called sheriff deputies to the scene. The woman had been shot once in the head by a .38 caliber revolver.

Her husband, Jack Raymond Horner, was found in a semi-conscious state in the apartment's one bedroom from an apparent overdose. He was taken to Valley Memorial Hospital and later to Highland Hospital for treatment. He was released Friday to investigating sheriff's officers.

Suspect hpld in child molestation case

LIVERMORE — A 21-year-old mentally retarded man has been arrested after reportedly admitting molesting two sisters, three and four years old, in the backyard of his Lee Avenue home, police reported Friday.

Richard Allen Frydendal, 21, of 229 Lee Ave., was arraigned in Livermore Municipal Court Thursday on two counts of felony child molest.

Police said the incident occurred Wednesday afternoon. It came to light after the four-year-old told her mother what had happened.

Police arrested Frydendal after the girl identified him as the suspect. He reportedly confessed after a brief talk with officers.

The two girls were not injured.

Detective Jim Serna said Frydendal had applied to a San Francisco mental clinic to undergo diagnosis. The application had been transferred to Oakland and had not been processed.

Frydendal is currently at the state mental hospital in Napa pending a battery of tests to determine the extent of his handicap.

Suspect arrested in assault on Springtown woman

LIVERMORE — A Las Flores Road resident has been arrested and charged with assault and burglary after he allegedly struggled with a woman in her apartment Wednesday, police reported.

The woman told police she awoke to find the man in her apartment early Wednesday. She ran to another room but was attacked until she broke free and fled the apartment.

Arrested later the same day was James Anthony Cruz, 22, of 851 Las Flores Road. He was being held at Santa Rita Jail pending a hearing.

Sacramento man arrested with pot, benzedrine

LIVERMORE — Police checking to see if a man selling meat in the city had a solicitor's license instead discovered a marijuana cigarette and six benzedrine pills in his truck.

The suspect vehicle, with no license plates, was observed by police parked at the intersection of North K and Railroad streets about noon Wednesday. When police leaned down to check for registration, the smell of burnt marijuana was noticed.

The driver then returned and identified the truck as his. A marijuana cigarette was discovered in the glove compartment, as were six benzedrine pills.

Arrested and booked on suspicion of a controlled substance was Matthew Harland Burbank, 22, of Sacramento.

Stolen shotgun recovered from illegal hunter

PLEASANTON — A shotgun confiscated from one of four youths hunting in a field was discovered stolen and the youth arrested on suspicion of burglary, police report.

The juveniles were arrested last week when they were found hunting in a field behind a Grillo Court home. Their weapons were confiscated as routine police.

A computer check of the weapons' serial numbers showed that one had been stolen from William Frank Williams' Concord Street home.

The 16-year-old youth was booked on suspicion of felony burglary and the $596 shotgun was kept as evidence.

THE DAWN OF UNITY

'Abdu'l-Bahá on the Dawn of Unity

♦This is a new cycle of human power. All the horizons of the world are luminous, and the world will become indeed as a garden and a paradise. It is the hour of unity of the sons of men and of the drawing together of all races and all classes. . . .

The Baha'i Community of Pleasanton requests the pleasure of your company at a reception given in honor of the anniversary of the visit of Abdu'l-Baha Abbas to be held at the Alisal School Multipurpose Room 1454 Santa Rita Rd. on Sunday Oct. 17, 1976, 1:00 p.m.

Marine band concert

A large and appreciative crowd turned out Friday to hear rare performances at the Pleasanton fairgrounds by the U.S. Marine Band. Concerts were held at the amphitheatre at 2 and 8 p.m. The event was sponsored by the Livermore Jaycees. The band was directed by Lt. Col. Jack Kline. Proceeds from the affair will be used to finance Jaycee community projects.

Muni court action reported

LIVERMORE — Christopher Laurence Larsen, 19, 1904 Broadmoore St., Livermore pleaded not guilty Thursday to burglarizing the People's Church, 1135 Bluebell Drive Sept. 12.

He was arrested with Russell Lee Palmer, 19, 1916 Broadmoor St., after police say the suspects allegedly sprayed fire extinguishers in the sanctuary, damaged a trophy on display and took food from the kitchen.

Larsen is scheduled for another court appearance Oct. 26, but court officials did not have indication of next appearance for Palmer.

In other court action: — Jimmie Wells, 33, of Oakland, was arraigned on felony charges of possessing the drug Dalmene while an inmate at Santa Rita prison Oct. 7.

Deputies reportedly confiscated three types of medication from Wells, noting in their reports that two were prescription drugs not authorized for the prisoner and that Dalmene was on a controlled list of drugs.

He is scheduled to enter a plea Tuesday.

— Carol Gina Whitley, 23, of Alameda (also known as Linda Lou Shea, pleaded not guilty Thursday to charges she escaped from Santa Rita prison Oct. 10.

Deputies' reports said she allegedly escaped after prying the lock and a fire-screen from a window.

She is scheduled for another court appearance Nov. 15.

— Dolores Marie Brajkovich, 31, 337 Main St., Pleasanton, has pleaded not guilty to charges of possessing the animal tranquilizer PCP with the intention of selling the substance. She was arrested by Pleasanton police after a search of her car and home.

Police reportedly confiscated three cigarettes containing the drug from her purse and three more cigarettes in her home. They also reportedly confiscated two plastic baggies with a white colored crystalline substance.

The suspect is out or $4,500 bail.

Valley educators' team wins Trivia Bowl test

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Lions Club could have used a Chris Chambliss and a Bobby Thompson, too, as they were shellacked 11-3 Thursday night by the Amador-Pleasanton All-Stars, a group of distinguished area educators who just happened to be skilled in trivia.

The event was the First Annual Trivia Bowl, held at Hap's Restaurant before a surging throng of 60 people dedicated to the proposition that the proceeds from the $1.50 tickets would go to the Foothill Boosters Fund to acquire bleacher seats and lights for the high school stadium.

The Lions reached the finals by beating a Foothill team earlier in the evening 5-1. The school district big-wigs made the finals by beating a sharp Times team 7-5.

The Times was tripped up on a question about what is Lil Abner's mother's first and last names (it's not Mammy Yokum) and lost a point for it, as well as missing the chance at the two follow-ups which one team member knew. Such is the way pennants are lost.

In the finals, the Lions members were vying to see who could go down in history like Ralph Branca and Mark Littell as the school administrators cleaned up the little stadium in the back of Hap's with their own home runs.

Nearly $100 was raised for the boosters, plus a sizeable donation from Lion Tony Macchiano who competed on his club's trivia team Thursday night.

Trivia Promotion Czar Al Fisher of the Times staff, who set up the trivia bowl, is now a talking about getting up a trivia league made up of many of the newspapers around the Bay Area.

Gravel woes. . .

Councilman Glen Dahlbacka, representing Livermore, tried to make the "traffic problem" part of the Environmental Impact Report which will be required of the industry's reclamation plan. But Dahlbacka was the lone dissenting vote when the committee moved to study traffic as an item separate from reclamation.

Supervisor John D. Murphy stressed that "the county cannot act" on the traffic problem "until we know what the priorities of Livermore and Pleasanton are" in regard to all traffic flow through those communities.

"Is development of El Charro Road more important to Livermore than Isabel Avenue extension?" Murphy asked. "Is it more important than Concannon?" a reference to a major route being sought on Livermore's southwest side.

Murphy went on to ask "would the two cities be prepared to divert Mayors' Formula Funds (the county's portion of gas tax revenues) to El Charro or Isabel?"

It was to develop this "priority list" and to learn more about the costs and possible usage of El Charro Road and Isabel Avenue that the study panel was formed. Representatives of the two city governments, the county, the East Bay Regional Park District and the quarry industry will be asked to serve on that panel.

Pleasanton has been pushing for development of El Charro Road from Stanley to I-580 as a means of diverting "all or most" of the gravel truck traffic off of that city's streets. Murphy has been working with Livermore to complete Isabel Avenue extension from Stanley to I-580 as "a more realistic route that we can fund right now, provided we get federal help."

The Isabel Route is now into preliminary design by the county, although there are still major questions as to how that extension will interchange with Stanley Boulevard.

Miniature 'Safety Town'

Safety Town, a miniature of downtown Pleasanton, came to life for a fourth year as the Pleasanton Police Education Officer Jim Swan instructed children on proper street safety rules for traveling to and from school. The 'town' was constructed and financed by the Pleasanton Junior Women's Club. Encompassing an area 50 by 200 feet, the Safety Town boasts sidewalks, signals, various signs, corners, crosswalks and railroad crossings just like a real town.

Bay parks growth successful

Approaching midway in its 10-year program to acquire parklands before choice outdoor recreation lands are priced out of the public purse, the East Bay Regional Park District already has established 10 new parks in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties.

Recognized as ranking among the top park agencies in the nation, EBRPD now has a system of 37 regional parks, shorelines, preserves, open space, wilderness and recreation areas of more than 41,000 acres, yet is only halfway in its decade of expansion.

Updating parkland acquisitions under its 1973 master plan, Hulet C. Hornbeck, master builder of the program as chief of EBRPD land acquisition reported to the board of directors Tuesday that 13,189 acres of land have been added at 20 geographic locations for a total purchase price of $14.5 million.

"Overall, we have acquired 45 per cent of the acreage projected in the Master Plan and have paid 43 per cent of the funds estimated as available for such acquisitions," Hornbeck said.

Some 40 locations, including the 20 now added to the district, were identified in the master plan as possible park sites for potential acquisition to create public parklands balanced both as to type of facility (regional park, shoreline, recreation and wilderness area, open space and preserve) and as to geographical location within the two counties, based on need and population.

With adoption of the plan in December, 1973, EBRPD began to participate fully in the "new money" provided by the state legislature in 1971 for acquisition and development of the new lands, amounting to 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Estimated revenue from enactment of the state legislation totals more than $50 million through July, 1982, with 80 per cent mandated for purchase and 20 per cent for development, maintenance and operation of new parklands.

Outside realtors help EBRPD staff and land attorneys in obtaining options on potential parklands, a factor in keeping the price down to $1.08 per $1 of assessed full cash value.

In the Valley, latest acquisitions include:

Morgan Territory Regional Preserve, north of Livermore in eastern Contra Costa County, 970 acres;

A 107-acre addition to Shadow Cliffs Regional Recreation Area, Pleasanton;

Some 266 acres added to Sunol Regional Wilderness;

Ridgeland Regional Preserve, 14,326-acre park between Del Valle and Sunol Regional Wilderness, southwest of Livermore; and Little Hills Regional Recreation Area in San Ramon, 100 acres.

State health officials seek ideas to encourage disabled

Do you have an idea that would help retarded people become more independent?

The state Department of Health is seeking pilot programs that will lead the way to greater independence for developmentally disabled persons — brain damaged, autistic, retarded.

A total of $550,000 in grants is available to the programs designed to fill gaps or expand services now available to developmentally disabled persons. Public information, transportation, pre-vocational training and outreach programs are typical examples of the directions individual programs may take.

The grants, issued yearly, may only be used to establish programs and once grants are exhausted the programs must find other sources of money.

Any community-based, nonprofit agency or organization may apply for grants. Applications will be reviewed at three levels. The first review will be by one of the 13 developmental disability boards located within the state. Each board will select the five best proposals submitted to it and pass them on to a selection committee comprising representatives from the state Developmental Disabilities Council, the Organization of Area Boards and those state departments which serve developmentally disabled persons.

That committee will further limit the list and then make recommendations to Jerome A. Lackner, state health director.

Results should be known by February. Anyone interested in applying for a grant may do so through the local area board.

Bradley Method

Training for expectant parents

Jean Marinko of Pleasanton has become certified by the American Academy of Husband Coached Childbirth to teach the Bradley Method of prepared childbirth. She will be sponsored by the Pleasanton Recreation Department and will hold an information night open to the public free of charge on Monday, Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at Century House on Santa Rita Road, Pleasanton. A film, "Childbirth For the Joy of It" will be shown.

Mrs. Marinko, the mother of five children, has been helping mothers with questions about breastfeeding and mothering for several years through her role as a La Leche League leader. Last year she was accepted in a special training program on infancy with Magda Gerber, an infant specialist, and Dr. Tom Forrest, a pediatric neurologist, in the Demonstration Infant Program (D.I.P.) at the Children's Health Council in Palo Alto. It was after the completion of this intensive training that Mrs. Marinko decided the best time to help parents with parenting is before the baby is born, so she began studying to be a childbirth educator.

"It has been a very busy and hectic year and a half," Mrs. Marinko said. She attended the La Leche League Convention in San Francisco in March and participated in a special workshop on childbirth given by Shiela Kitsigner, renowned authority on childbirth in England and author of several books on the subject. Mrs. Marinko then

New '76 models

Nine new babies arrived recently in the Valley, according to reports from Bay Area hospitals.

At Eden Hospital, Castro Valley, two Pleasanton couples had babies: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pahler of 6885 Payne Court, a boy Sept. 29; and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Inman, 2113 Arroyo Court, a girl Sept. 30.

At John Muir Hospital, Walnut Creek, Gary and Laurie Gillam of Pleasanton had a boy Oct. 2; Bruce and Jeanette Ashford of Dublin had a girl Oct. 3.

Kaiser Hospital, Walnut Creek, notes the following births:

Oct. 1, Mary and John Scott of 7239 Emerald Ave., Dublin, a boy; Robert and Cherryll Wood, 1768 Cairo Court, Livermore, a boy.

Oct. 2, Kathleen and George McFate, 4270 School St., Pleasanton, a girl.

Oct. 6, Emily and Gary Hust, 375 James St., Livermore, a girl.

Oct. 7, Catherine and James Hays, 2125 Arroyo Court, Pleasanton, a girl.

took the Bradley teacher training in April and went to the International Childbirth Education Association Convention in Seattle in June, where she took further teacher training.

In August, she and six others, including Mrs. Gerber, from the Demonstration Infant Program went to Budapest, Hungary, where they were privileged to study for two full weeks at the National Methodological Institute for Residential Nurseries. LOCZY is run by the famous Dr. Emmi Pikler as a home for infants from birth to age three who are either orphaned or for some reason cannot live at home.

The methods developed by Dr. Pikler, first with her own family, then as a private pediatrician working with families and now used at LOCZY have attracted much interest and attention all over the world.

The Bradley classes will run for eight weeks, once a week on Mondays, beginning Nov. 1 and will be limited to no more than eight couples to allow individual attention.

The course will cover the mechanics and psychology of pregnancy, labor and childbirth: How to prepare for the birth, infancy, parenting and the father's role as coach. Mrs. Marinko will share her experiences and studies and will have charts, slides and films as part of the class materials.

Fee for the class is $40 per couple. Registration will be taken at the Pleasanton Recreation Department, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton or at the information night at Century House.

Lineup for estate instruction

LIVERMORE — There are a lot of local people concerned about their estates.

So many, in fact, that a new class offered by the Livermore Adult School, "Estate Planning," was filled to capacity and people were turned away. Now, the night school announces a second session planned for the end of the month and early November.

The free classes will be held at Livermore High, 7-9 p.m. Oct. 27, Nov. 3 and Nov. 10.

Philip Butler, president of Managed Investments of San Francisco, will teach the seminars. He has more than 25 years' experience in financial and investment fields.

Butler will discuss identification and illustration of the biggest mistakes people make with their money; reducing or deferring taxes; maximizing earnings on savings accounts and benefits from social security; wills, trusts, how to avoid excessive costs of probating a will; brief resume of the various areas of investments; pitfalls and rewards of savings accounts, real estate, stock market, gold, silver and other commodities.

There is no registration fee but all interested persons must sign up at the Adult Education office, 3044 East Ave., prior to the first class meeting.

How parents can gain confidence

Want to be a more confident parent?

"Confident Parenting" is the theme of a free four-week course being offered, beginning Oct. 18 and Oct. 27, in Dublin and Pleasanton.

The first new program will be from 9-11:30 a.m. at Shannon Community Center in Dublin. Judi Barbarosh is the trainer.

The second program will be on four consecutive Wednesday mornings, 9-11:30, at the Pleasanton Presbyterian Church, led by Judy Matheson.

"Confident Parenting" focuses on self-esteem, learning effective ways of dealing with conflict, and communicating clearly.

Further information is available from Dorris Fagan at 443-2894 or Hotline, 462-5544.

Volunteers needed to help school kids

LIVERMORE — School volunteers are invited to a seven-session program to help them work with children.

"Relating to Children" is the topic of the first session, scheduled for Monday, Oct. 18, 9-11 a.m. at the city library, 1000 South Livermore Ave.

Kay Honodel, coordinator of volunteers, says the workshops are designed to provide school volunteers with the general skills, training and knowledge to help them in working with children.

The Livermore School Volunteer Assistants Program and the Adult School are sponsoring the classes. Registration information is available from Kay Honodel at the administration building, 447-9500, ext. 288.

Sue Bergmans — Among the first to be ordained

By Arline Butterfield
"What God has been calling me to do for a long time will now be possible."

This was the candid response by the Reverend Sue Bergmans, deputy vicar of St. Clare's Episcopal Church in Pleasanton, to the recent decision by the General Convention of the Episcopal Church that women will be allowed to be ordained as priests.

She explained that she already has her Master of Divinity degree which is one of the requirements. And she plans to fulfill certain other procedural steps between now and Jan. 1, 1977 when the canon goes into effect.

A result of the decision, there will be women as priests and bishops in one country has not necessarily caused other countries to follow.

The Anglican Church in Hong Kong, in 1971 was the first to ordain women, the Anglican Church of Canada and that of New Zealand have already approved the ordination of women, and the Church of England (also Anglican) has approved in principle but has taken no definite action.

According to United Press International the Rt. Rev. Donald Coggan, Archbishop of Canterbury, spiritual leader for the world's 65 million Anglicans, favors the ordination of women but said he would not celebrate communion with any irregularly ordained American women priests until their status is regularized. He urged U.S. Episcopalians to heal their divisiveness following the bitter battle over the ordination of women.

Canada is expected to ordain its first women priests in October. It is possible that the U.S. will act in concert with that date.

Opponents of women's ordination in the Episcopal Church have made known the possibility that they might secede from the three million member denomination.

Asked had she personally met any opposition as a woman in the ministry, Sue Bergmans replied, "I am aware of considerable opposition in the church at large. Personally, I've met none. Plenty of people in the Episcopal Church are opposed to the idea."

"One concern in the Episcopal Church is its relationship to the Catholic Church. It might harm our relationship. Some Catholics are thrilled at it because they want the Catholics to do it also."

An Associated Press release on Oct. 12 stated that teams of Catholic scholars are researching several of the most widely voiced concerns of Catholics at a conference where working papers are being turned out on each subject. One of the eight categories currently being studied concerns the admitting of women to the Catholic priesthood.

"Episcopalians are Protestants, but one difference between us and the other Protestant denominations is that the Anglican Communion is the first world-wide body to admit women to the priesthood who believe that clergy are in the Apostolic succession. (A direct relationship to the apostles.) Most Protestant denominations gave up that idea with the Reformation, and do not deem it necessary to their ministry." This results in the Episcopalians having a different view from other Protestant denominations on what it means to be a priest.

"Presbyterians, Methodists, the United Church of Christ, some Lutheran — many major Protestant denominations — have already approved of the ordination of women for some time. Even those women have not found it easy to get employment."

The Rev. Sue Bergmans stated last February that she would welcome the chance to become a fully - accepted ordained priest. Now that women can become ordained as priests, and also may be admitted to the Episcopacy as bishops, she is looking forward to the fulfillment of what she feels is God's call to her — fully - accepted priesthood in the Episcopal Church.

FULFILLMENT OF GOD'S CALL
The Rev. Sue Bergmans, deputy vicar of St. Clare's Episcopal Church in Pleasanton, anticipates a 1977 ordination following her church's historic decision to allow women as priests.

lifestyle

an ordination in January or February in the Bay Area. There are several women in this region who, like Sue Bergmans have met all the qualifications up to this point.

The willowy woman with the warm smile, a nurse with a bachelor of science degree from the College of the Holy Names, went on to explain that two unauthorized ordinations of women had already taken place. Eleven Philadelphia women in 1974, and Four Washington, D.C., women in 1975 had gone through the rites of consecration into the Episcopal ministry without the approval of the church authorities.

For the past two years, these women have not been recognized officially as priests. However, now the House of Bishops in Philadelphia has recommended a Eucharistic Celebration or public service in which they will be recognized as priests.

Special problems of women in the priesthood center around, not only the question of ordination, but also the practical consideration of employment. There is difficulty in the area of employment for women priests.

"I am very blessed in having this job here at St. Clare's," admits the Rev. Bergmans. "There are many Episcopal churches at this time which would find it new, strange and disturbing (to have a woman priest). My hope is that the church will grow to recognize that having both men and women as priests will mean the inclusion of all people with different talents to offer."

"Women parishioners probably feel more included to see women serving at the altar."

The Episcopal Church in the United States is part of the Anglican world-wide body, but because the church in each country is independent of the others, the decision to ordain

One problem— one answer

After two years of dilligent research and twenty years of stench and stammer, it is difficult to see how anyone could oppose the "Valley Pipeline" now being advanced as the answer to our sewer woes.

Even the poor home owner and tenant who is faced with another $3 or $4 on the monthly utility bill has to understand this would be a small price to pay if it means solving a problem that has been draining the local treasury of hundreds of thousands of dollars through "temporary sewer answers" over the last few years.

The key question is of course, "Is this really the final, longterm answer to the great sewer problem?"

There are no guarantees about anything anymore, it seems. But for at least the next twenty years — and probably a great deal longer — the line linking Valley treatment systems to an outfall system to the Bay is not only the best answer available, it is the only answer we can afford.

And it is the soundest response to "our concern for the environment" that science and a half dozen responsible agencies can devise.

Frankly, it has been disappointing to find none of our well known "environmental saviors" stepping forward right now in spirited support of this pipeline concept. The Pearsons, Millers et al have been moaning for years now that the Valley can't grow, can't attract industry, can't even process its own waste "because we can't discharge the minerals created by our effluent."

Now there is a pipeline proposed to carry those salts into a Bay and an ocean able to absorb such treated wastes with little difficulty; but the self-appointed defenders of all ecology are now finding new problems ... not about the concept of the outfall line, but about the size of the thing! They raise doubts about the integrity of a city council majority, ten or twenty years hence, to properly allocate the capacity created by that outfall line.

Our first responsibility is to act, now, to discharge wastes that we are creating, now. We must leave it to succeeding generations to use that answer wisely.

There are other problems of pollution still to be faced. The one before us is the discharge of treated mineral wastes. Proposition "U" on the Nov. 2 ballot is an answer today for a problem of today. Vote "Yes".

'WAIT' for what?

Those who lead the opposition to incorporation of San Ramon Valley into a new city are certainly entitled to that view. They are not, however, entitled to play hide-and-sneak with the voters right up to the day of that important ballot.

For reasons we don't pretend to understand, there has been a great deal of mystery surrounding the campaign effort of the "WAIT" — (Work Against Increased Taxes) committee. After one false start, that campaign suddenly appeared again in the hands of a very respected (and we presume, very expensive) Santa Clara advertising agency, which immediately began cranking out literature and paid advertising.

When asked where that money is coming from, spokesmen for the agency say "Ask the WAIT Committee." But when those committee people are queried, the response has been "ask the ad agency."

Common sense, and a very tough state law, require that the source of all campaign funds, for whatever cause, be clearly identified, and made public. The people behind "WAIT" owe it to themselves, and to the community they purport to serve, to tell their full story now.

Either that, or the voters are entitled to ask — "What has the anti-city group got to hide?"

Assemblyman Mori

Prisons and crime

Some of the toughest and most far-reaching penal reforms in California history were enacted by the 1975-76 Legislature.

Fifty-nine years ago, California's so-called "indeterminate sentence" system was enacted and hailed as a major penal reform. It allowed the Adult Authority and the Women's Board of Terms and Paroles to decide when state prison inmates would be freed.

The idea was to fit the punishment to the criminal, promising early freedom to those who obey prison rules and work to rehabilitate themselves. But the fact that nearly half of the freed convicts are back in prison within six years is convincing testimony to our inability to accurately assess rehabilitation.

The Legislature in 1976 declared the system a noble failure and abolished the indeterminate sentence.

The punishment Californians receive for the crimes they commit will no longer depend on their ability to influence the parole authorities. Punishment is going to fit the crime — not the criminal. It is going to be consistent and it is going to be certain. It is also going to be tough.

This year we passed another measure meting out mandatory prison sentences for three-time losers — persons convicted of serious felony offenses within a 10-year period. Enactment of this measure is based on the recognition that we will not curb crime in California until we demonstrate to repeaters — those who make a business of crime — that it won't pay. The person who has two or more felonies on his record is far less likely to commit another when he knows with certainty that his next conviction will mean state prison.

We are also getting tougher on hard-core juvenile criminals. We enacted a new law authored by Assemblyman Julian Dixon (D-L.A.), which tells 16 or 17 years olds who commit violent crimes that they no longer can count on the luxury of being treated like children. They will be presumed unfit for juvenile court unless they can prove otherwise.

Another positive step was enactment of a so-called "Bill of Rights" for police officers, which is designed to upgrade the professional status of their jobs and encourage the entry of topflight personnel into the crime prevention field.

UK's rain

Rain has saturated the United Kingdom for the past month. Storm-wise English hide in doorways during squalls. They queue at streetside umbrellas stands between downpours. From Scotland to Wales, roads, fields, entire villages are washed out.

The British are trapped with their bumbershoots down. After one of the driest summers on record, they've forgotten the fury of their own skies.

That's because there's been a government-declared drought in England since early July. It has been the worst in 200 years. From June 20 to July 10 the British endured daily temperatures better suited to Death Valley. Until mid September, they received no rain at all.

The drought caused hardship. It dealt a psychological blow to the people by endangering England's greatest treasure — thousands of miles of silky green vegetation, splashed generously over hills and valleys.

"It was enough to move one to tears," said a school teacher born in Shakespeare country near Stratford-upon-Avon 50 years ago. "We thought the entire country would have to be reseeded. It was all dead."

Autumn's onslaught has altered the picture, however. Government retracted its drought warnings just last week. And the magnificent English countryside has regained its shimmering green glow.

But estimates are that it will take two years to recoup England's water losses. It will take the British longer to forget.

Few emergencies ever attracted such widespread attention. The water shortage was the cause of extraordinary civic measures. Millions of words, fact and fiction, were spent on it. And of course those resilient British wits, undaunted in crisis, unleashed torrents of "dry" humor.

After effects of drought still remain. In the Midlands north of London they'll charge you 20 cents for a shower, 15 for a bath. The limit is one per day. Signs say, don't flush the toilet — unless it's "necessary."

The British Railway still refuses to wash passenger carriages and the expansive lawns of Hyde Park are sparse and tinged with brown.

Down in Devon and Cornwall, the south coast where drought hit hardest, home taps remain capped. Twice a day water is trickled through the pipes to thirsty customers. That's all.

"The Evening Standard," London's big afternoon tabloid serializes an upcoming novel to help everyone forget water woes. It's all about a flash flood that spills the Thames over its banks, washing away most of London.

The week in retrospect

Parent-power

Let's take a break from the torrent of school negotiation news, the charges and counter-charges, the impasses and mediation efforts — and talk about some of the positive programs being conducted for children in various valley school districts.

The impetus for this theme comes from attending an authors program benefit brunch Thursday at Harvest Park School in Pleasanton.

Not only the parent club members who put on the lunch but the faculty and administration, and most particularly Judy Bryer, are to be commended for the Harvest Park luncheon and the authors program — starting its third year.

But there are a plethora of other schools throughout the valley with programs, all with one central ingredient — interested parents.

Some of these programs are state-initiated, such as Early Childhood Education (ECE), while others are parent and/or school organized, such as the many benefit "pizza nights" and "adventure playground" projects that have been developed in recent years.

All depend on "parent power." For, in the final analysis, schools are going to have to count on volunteer parent effort more and more.

Whether it be to help along an authors program, such as at Harvest Park School, insure a quality ECE program as now underway at Country Club School in San Ramon, or promote development of a playground and landscaping in the Fairlands School (Pleasanton) area, parents are going to make the difference.

At least until such time as the "mood" of not only the general public but the State Legislature and Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. changes. School districts will not be able to provide all these services as noted without additional funding each year.

We had an opportunity to learn about the volunteer aides program at Country Club School earlier this week while meeting with Carol Moody, volunteers coordinator.

More parents, community members and/or senior citizens who can devote a few hours each week to assisting kindergarten through third grade children during school hours are needed.

Persons who would like to help, whether it be working with the children directly or helping keep records or run-off dittos, may contact Mrs. Moody Monday through Friday mornings at 828-7284.

Fairlands is another school with "parent power." The current project is a "Pizza Night," scheduled Wednesday at Straw Hat Pizza on Hopyard in Pleasanton, to produce funds for landscaping and a playground near the school.

In the past year several schools have inaugurated "adventure playgrounds" — such as Donlon, Vintage Hills and Walnut Grove.

Again, it was parent power that put the project "over the top."

Perhaps it is appropriate to paraphrase a statement made by President John F. Kennedy almost 16 years ago.

"Ask not what the schools can do for you, but how you might help your neighborhood school."

Letters to the Times

Snide remarks

Editor, The Times:

I feel compelled to comment on Supervisor Murphy's latest attack on Mrs. Valerie Raymond (TVH 10/12/76).

Mr. Murphy has to be so careful to avoid discussing issues that he is now reduced to making snide remarks about the alleged condition of her backyard. This new attack serves no useful purpose but to remind us that we really do not yet know where to find Mr. Murphy's backyard. Last spring the press brought to light that he had been taking his homeowners exemption in Grass Valley — paying his property taxes there. In spite of this he insisted that he really lived in Pleasanton.

Now I see where he is describing himself as "Fremont's own John Murphy." Confused? I'm not. Regardless of where he says he lives, he hasn't been minding the store and this November I intend to cast my ballot for Valerie Raymond, the one we need on the Board of Supervisors.

Good leaders

Editor, The Times:

People of Pleasanton ...

What you are about to read is a Fact, not a fantasy. You have two of the most outstanding people working for you that you could ever ask for. One is working as president of your Chamber of Commerce, the other is Mayor of Pleasanton. These men are dedicated and have high moral standards. They truly believe in what they are doing, they believe in you, they have good sense of humor, they can laugh and yet be serious, they know what is going on in their town.

I firmly believe that now is a good time to let these men know that you appreciate them. Why don't you all give each of them a call on the telephone or just drop by their offices and say "thank you."

I personally want to thank you Bob Philcox and Merle Telford for the leadership and friendship I have received from you in the past.

Ted Mann

Lambert replies

Editor, The Times:

I would like to take this opportunity to respond to a recent letter to the editor by Mr. J. C. Stear of Livermore.

In that letter, Mr. Stear grossly misrepresented my stand on two key issues in the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District Board of Directors race and I feel I must correct these errors through this media.

1. Mr. Stear indicated I would seek to set the maximum tax levy allowed. I have never, since the campaign began, indicated I would initiate any tax increase measure; and in fact the tax rate is already at its legal maximum without the voters approving an increase.

2. Mr. Stear indicates I would increase and improve facilities by sucking up all the Government Grants I could arrange. The particular sentence of my recent press release that related to this subject read, and I quote, "However, a tremendous source of money not available to Government Agencies exists in the form of grants from any of the thousands of charitable foundations in the United States."

This foundation money is Not tax money. These funds must be spent in the form of grants if the foundations are to maintain their tax-exempt status. It seems foolish for the LARPD not to apply for these funds — through an existing local non-profit group or by forming a group for that purpose.

If Mr. Stear can substantiate his comment indicating the Majority of the people favor open space rather than development of specialized areas i.e.; tennis courts, ball fields, soccer fields, moto-cross, etc., I would be happy to consider revising my thinking in that area.

In theory, Mr. Stear's idea of having the groups "pass the hat" to aid in construction of the special use areas is an excellent one but certainly not a new one.

This method of development has been used many times to assist LARPD in their construction and programming. For example, look at the super job the youth soccer groups have done at Independence Park and the hard work of the Rotary in the Robertson Park lighting project.

It is my contention that this type of LARPD assistance can be expanded greatly with very beneficial results and cost savings to the District and eventually the taxpayer.

I am surprised at the indication of such a fact oriented individual that voters should support candidates who "might" give taxpayers control. At this time that is a big "might" since none of these candidates have been heard on any of the issues.

4-H rewarding

Editor, The Times:

Thank you very much for the articles and pictures in your paper for 4-H Week. They were excellent. It is very rewarding to 4-H'ers to see and read articles in The Times. They work very hard on their projects as you know and The Times has been very generous to our club's news.

We thank you again, for your support of 4-H.

Professor Berger is baffled. About the English language. Which is particularly disconcerting since Professor Berger teaches English, at UC Davis.

Feedback was his downfall. Rather than being content with telling his students how the English language should be used, Professor Berger got students to report how they really use it.

The results were somewhat disastrous. Those college students wrote about going on a "picknick" and playing the "chello." One student recalled a mob's "pannick" resulting in a trip to the hospital via "ambulience." And so it goes.

The language we Americans share with our English forefathers is under siege, no question about it. Not since William the Conqueror brought his version of French to Britania has there been such a battle over word usage.

Frankly, any parent of recent vintage could have advised Professor Berger that he was in dangerous waters, seeking student feedback on nomenclature. The good prof obviously didn't have one of my charges in his English class, for if he had the report would have emerged something like this:

"We goes on this picnic and we meets this turkey there who is laying it on pretty thick. And then he ups to me and he goes — 'What's with you chicks, anyway?' And then my friend goes"

Some years ago, before I was fortunate to lose my hearing, I was apt to correct young people in their use of the American/English language. I would carefully explain the tenses, past, past passive, that sort of thing. And I would suggest, gently but firmly, that "She goes" and "I goes" was a usage well beneath the quality of high school grammar to which these young people were being exposed, at considerable taxpayer expense.

All of which made no impact whatsoever on the assembled high schoolers, who still "goes" at every opportunity, right through college.

As one who gained early schooling in "the English system," I must admit that our language is somewhat confusing. Even grossly inconsistent. Dropping the "u" from "colour" was one thing; but when I had to drop my "serviette" for a "napkin" and shed my "britches" for "pants," I must confess life was not easy, in those early Americanized years.

Even to this day, "defence" will still slip through my typewriter now and then; and observers swear, 25 years later, that there is something in my "house" that betrays the Canadian origins of so long ago.

Which is one reason I have ceased to belabor young people when "She goes" hither and yon.

Professor Berger seems particularly upset with the spelling errata of his college students. He should try going out into the world, with the post-graduate set, for a real shocker. Some of them come our way via the employment lists. Most have their BA, MA, a year or two of teaching perhaps, and that person would "very much like a position with your fine newspaper." At least placing him on the newspaper's staff would remove said individual from his teaching post.

Then again we receive "Letters to The Editor" ... from a candidate for high public office ... and boldly printed across the top of that letter is the message ... "PLEASE DON'T CHANGE A WORD OF THIS BECAUSE IT'S IMPORTANT!"

The word is out of joint, it would seem. But, come to think of it, language usage has never been easy, for us Anglo Saxons by way of Britania or Prussia. "Hail to thee, blithe spirit — Bird thou never wert ..."

Percy Brysshe Shelley wrote that. He was talking to a skylark. There are 21 verses, I had to learn every blessed one, during my own high school days, or miss the basketball game in the school basement.

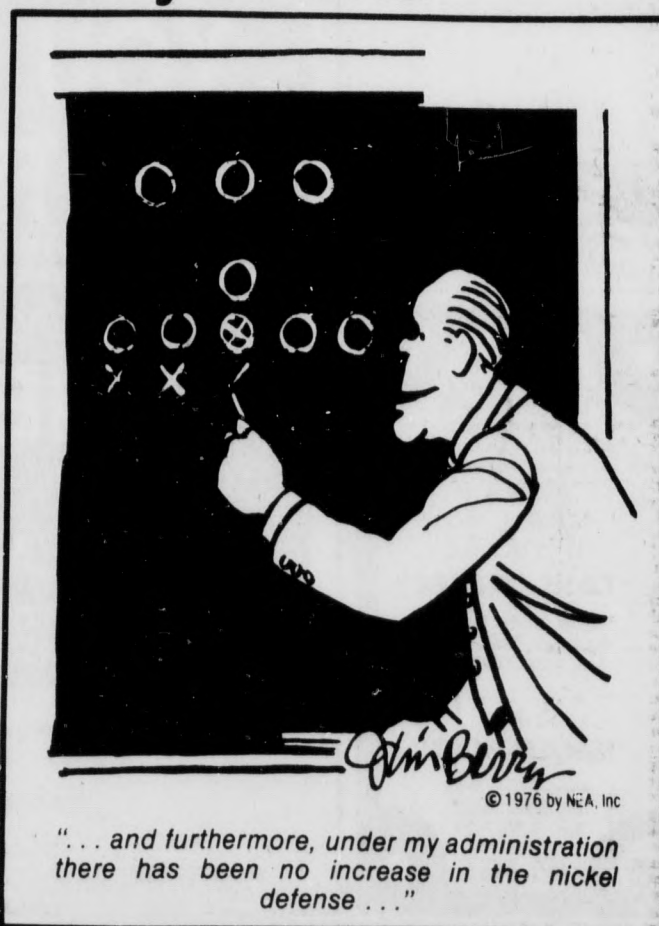

"Whan that Aprille with his shoures sote — The droghte of Marche hath perced to the rote ..." Chaucer wrote that. Chaucer is the father of today's language, English or American. It's no wonder we're having problems.

"It is abundantly clarified for this personage that the offensive dimensions of the line are no longer proportionated to the yardage being added thereto by the other side." Howard Cosell said that. On Monday night football. Howard is considered, at least by ABC, to be the modern purveyor of American nomenclature.

I would suggest to Professor Berger that his cause is a hopeless one. The age of forthright, understandable language is dead. Just ask Earl Butz. Better yet, ask Richard Nixon. He has it all there, on tape. The sad tale of a man who talked candidly, for the record. And there he goes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're very easy to get along with today, but you are also responsible. Managing people is your long suit.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Base today's activities around things the entire family can participate in. Let the children include a few select friends, too.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) All will appreciate the fact you are not the one who makes idle promises today. What you'll say you'll do, you will.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Material prospects continue to look encouraging. Gains will result through your own hunches or from deals set up by others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not likely to take things at face value today. You're equally interested in what's behind the facade.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The good that you've done is coming home to roost. The returns are apt to far exceed your investment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A bright idea may occur to you today as to how to revitalize a situation that seemingly held no promise. It's worth trying.

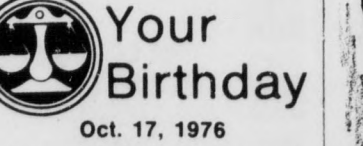

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your chances to reach important goals today are very good. Aside from your own initiative there's something extra going for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's wise at this time to start looking ahead a bit. Plan now for the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're very likely to get what you want today, but don't expect anything to be handed you on a platter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't dodge a difficult decision today. It won't go away by ignoring it. Look at your problems squarely.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may have a few additional responsibilities today. They're not beyond your capabilities. Take pride in your work.

Kryptonite Crew does the job

Gaels' Jim Boulware (31) scrambles from Granada lineman as Sean Mays of Dublin looks on. (Times photo by Steve Atkinson)

Look! Up in the sky, it's a flock of birds, it's a squadron of planes... It's the Kryptonite Crew?

That's right, according to Granada High School defensive back Jim Lennon, who collared a reporter after the Mats had jumped back into the massive tie for the East Bay Athletic League lead with a 21-7 win over the host Dublin Gaels Friday night.

"They made (Dublin running back Jim) Boulware out to be a superman," Lennon said in reference to a recent posed photo in the Tri-Valley Herald. "But the Kryptonite Crew got him." And they did, holding Boulware, who sprinted for 104 yards in the Gaels first five games, to just 78 yards on 23 carries. However, faithful the Matador defense was with its self-bestowed nickname, Boulware remained relatively unruffled.

"The teams are getting better," he said, recalling the 200-plus games of September. "But I should pick up again."

Boulware's Granada counterpart, consistent Vance Rushing, was a little more vehement after rolling up 142 yards on 27 packs, a typical performance for the 190-pound senior.

Asked whether outgaining Boulware gave him any special satisfaction, he said, "Yeah, because he's so overated, everyone on our team wanted to kick his butt."

However, Dublin coach Wayne Re wasn't worried about strange visitors from a distant planet or, for that matter, West Livermore.

"Granada didn't hurt us, penalties did," complained Re, who wasn't contesting the calls of the officials, whom he praised. "On their first TD drive we gave them three major penalties."

"There's no way we can win like that."

Re claimed he wasn't unhappy with the play of his team otherwise and singled out defensive tackle Tom Futak, Bob Klein and Al Christensen as some of the pluses for the Gaels.

Granada coach Don Couch was similarly pleased.

"It always feels good to beat Dublin," he said. "The kids always like to do it."

The veteran coach rattled off what he believed were the keys to Granada's success: "Defense, hitting, pursuit, gang-tackling. I also thought we were in better condition than Dublin."

That thought was supported by the fact that Dublin scored first but, admittedly with the spectre of countless penalties staring at it, couldn't keep its offense together later on.

Quarterback Sean Mays completed just two passes and both were keys to the Gaels touchdown. In the midst of a 91-yard, 16-play drive, Mays hit tight end Harvey Trump for a 25-yard gain when Trump hung on to a diving fingertip catch.

Four plays later, including an 11-yard ramble with a loose ball by 205-pound tackle Klein, the pair hooked up on the same pattern for a 12-yard TD on the final play of the first quarter.

The Mats waited till the last :39 of the half to even the score with the drive that Re pointed to as the low point of Dublin's evening. Forty-five yards in penalties and the musical-quarterback tandem of Bill Parness and Steve Robinson brought Granada to the eight.

Rushing took it in from there, packing a Robinson pitch around a final block by Jaryl Hudson for the TD. Bryan McSharry tied it with the first of three extra point kicks.

Although hampered by a pair of their own 15-yard penalties, Granada marched 68 yards on 12 plays to take the lead with 10:39 left in the game. Rushing, who tallied 52 yards on the drive, scored on a counter through the left of the line with tight end Rick Bosch coming up with the big block.

Rushing wrapped up the scoring on the final play-from-scrimmage of the game, going off left guard for the sixer.

Passes key in Foothill win

Foothill High School's football team may not resort to the forward pass very much but when it does the timing is excellent.

Falcon quarterback Kevin Henderson completed just three of eight attempts but two of them set up touchdowns as the surprising Foothill squad defeated host Amador Valley 15-0, Friday night to pull into a six-way tie for first place in the East Bay Athletic League standings. The Falcons, now 2-1 in the loop, used the trusty hands of 160-pound wide receiver Chas Dean to set up the two touchdowns.

With a first and 15 situation facing the Falcons on the Amador Valley 20 midway through the second quarter Henderson fired a pass over the middle to Dean who ran to the Don one. On the next play Henderson fumbled the hike but center Ken Franco fell on the ball in the end zone for the touchdown. Rick Henderson's PAT attempt was good and the Falcons led 7-0.

Amador almost tied the score near the end of the half. Don quarterback Pat Inglesby fired a long bomb to flanker Mike Goodison who gathered it in, fumbled the ball and recovered it on the Falcon 13. Running back Rob Flores swept around the end for 12 yards to the one before the Dons called time out.

However, Inglesby was stopped short of the goal line as the first half ended. That may have been the spark that sealed the Dons' fate. For in the second half Foothill, which had rushed for only 36 yards in the first half, began to move the ball on the Dons.

After Foothill stopped another Amador drive on its 11, the Falcons showed their stuff. Brad Cotton, who led the Falcon rushers with 72 yards in 12 carries, Craig Johnson and Russ Humphries, started to peek away at the Don defense with four and five-yard thrusts, mostly up the middle.

The Falcons scored their touchdown with 8:12 remaining in the last quarter when Humphries rambled in from the four to climax a 74-yard drive in 10 plays. The big play in the drive was a 15-yard pass from Henderson to Dean, again over the middle, giving the Falcons a first down on the Amador eight. Cotton plowed for four before Humphries added the clincher.

After that the Falcons defense, led by defensive tackle Tony Trujillo, was awesome. The 6-1, 230-pound tackle had two quarterback sacks and a pass deflection.

Foothill put the finishing touches on the scoreboard with just three seconds left in the contest when linebacker Steve Evans tackled Inglesby in the end zone for a safety.

"It was the best defensive performance in the history of Foothill High," smiled Falcon assistant coach Jay Craney after the contest. —by Gary Brown DANVILLE — John Arnaud reached out of his bag of miracles to haul in three touchdown passes from Troy Thomas in the last eight minutes of the game Friday night as San Ramon rallied from behind to derail Livermore, 34-23, in a key East Bay Athletic League football contest.

The 'Pokes broke down in the defensive secondary in the last quarter after putting together their best offensive effort of the season against the Wolves. Both teams are now tied with Monte Vista, Dublin, Granada and Foothill for first place in the EBAL, all with 2-1 marks.

While the 'Pokes deprived themselves of sole possession of the lead, quarterback Rick Gildea enjoyed his finest passing venture of the year, completing 18 of 29 passes for 202 yards, with Dave West hauling in eight catches and Bob Tarte receiving hooked up with Arnaud again, this time from 32 yards out with 6:23 to play. Arnaud was smothered by Bockover, Naish Piazza and Johnny Farfan but leaped above the crowd to make the catch.

Livermore moved the ball down to the San Ramon 45 but stalled when called for "five men in the backfield" on Les Jacobs' half-back option pass to West at the Wolf 11-yard line. The play ended any realistic hopes of a comeback for Livermore.

When the 'Pokes did get one last shot at the game with 1:31 to go and San Ramon back on punt, the officials threw the flag at them once again; this time a "roughing the kicker" call that sewed matters up for the Wolves. Almost.

The teams were tied 14-14 at halftime. Livermore scored on passes from Gildea to Tarte for six yards and Ed Moody, covering 26 yards. —by Brian Martin

Mustangs rally, beat California

DANVILLE — Monte Vista High moved into a six-way tie for first place in the East Bay Athletic League football race Friday.

Thanks to a fired-up defense. Losing 6-0 at the half, Monte Vista held California High, which had 11 yards in the first half, to only 12 in the third and fourth quarters. The Grizzlies ran only 11 offensive plays in the second half.

In this stage, the Mustangs ran for 69 yards and passed for 57, including two touchdowns and a 14-6 win over winless Cal.

place of regular Bart Adams, drove MV 55 yards in its initial third quarter series for the go-ahead tally.

Wood, on a keeper, scored from the Grizzly 10-yard-line on a fourth and five play. Craig Robinson's first of two conversions made it 7-6 with 8:03 showing.

The Mustangs, running down the clock with impressive wishbone formation overland drives, added some insurance with 1:33 to play.

On a second and nine, Wood hit wide receiver Dave Cowan, who was double covered, on a 19-yard pass. Cowan, runnerup to San Ramon's John Arnaud in receptions, caught five passes for 51 yards.

Meanwhile, California, now 0-3 in EBAL play and 0-6 overall, blocked an MV punt before going 20 yards in two plays for its only score.

The Grizzlies' Merrill Crapse got a hand on the kick, and on the ensuing play, Cal running back Chris Miller, who led all rushers with 67 yards in 10 carries, went 19 yards to the MV one-yard-line.

SALES

OPPORTUNITY

I'm looking for an individual who has the enthusiasm and drive to develop a local territory which will provide an excellent income through the repetitive selling of our industrial specialty products.

The average gross commissions of our representatives exceeds $25,000 after the first full year. We provide a drawing account up to $300 weekly against high commissions, and an excellent fringe benefit program including profit sharing and stock participation.

The exceptional quality of our products and their use by nearly every type of business and organization has created this virtually ideal sales situation.

Previous sales or business background preferred, but not necessary for the right individual.

KNOW YOUR FOOD

HOW TO BUY BEEF

Whether you're pleasing your family, delighting dinner guests or trying to stretch food dollars, versatile beef offers good value and good eating. There are a multitude of beef cuts — from the prime rib and pot roasts to steaks and thrifty cuts for hearty family meals. Each of these cuts can vary in quality, depending upon the grade of carcass from which it came. All are nutritious and can provide good eating if prepared properly.

Beef varies considerably in quality. Fortunately, you don't have to learn to judge beef quality for yourself. The United States Department of Agriculture grades are an excellent guide to quality, tenderness, flavor and juiciness. The grades are based on nationally uniform Federal standards and are applied by expert USDA graders. Therefore, you can be sure a USDA Choice beef roast or steak, for example, will provide the same good eating no matter where you buy it. Meat grading is a voluntary service provided to those who request it and pay for the service. Not all meat is graded. When you see private label meats, ask questions about the equivalent USDA quality.

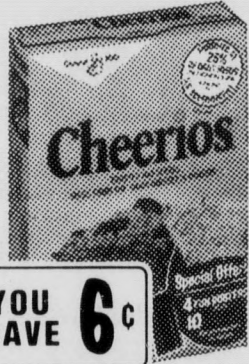

This column along with additional information about meat grading and the importance of "inspected for wholesomeness" is available in leaflet form in our stores. Come pick up your free copy to file for easy reference. No purchase necessary!
